The Society of Arts and Crafts Presents:

THE 11TH ANNUAL CRAFTBOSTON SPRING IS LADY LUCK ON YOUR SIDE?

Find out at the Craftboston Spring 2012 raffle! Sure gambling is frowned upon, but not when there is handmade craft at stake. This year, ten exhibiting artists have each generously donated a piece of artwork valued from $250 to $500 to be raffled off. Proceeds will benefit The Society of Arts and Crafts' education and outreach programs.

There's no need to be a high roller to participate. Raffle tickets will be for sale in the center court of the show for only $5 per ticket, or $20 for 5 tickets. You decide whether you want to enter all of your raffle tickets for different prizes or stack your chances for your favorite piece. The house imposes no limits, so you can ante up as many times as you would like to better your odds.

So go ahead and feel good about gambling at Craftboston Spring 2012 because you will be supporting a 115- year-old non-profit craft organization. One tip – don't try to pay off the pit bosses at center court – those volunteers are tougher than they look!

Participating artists who make it possible for you to "be in it to win it":

Laura Baring-Gould – Metal
Jenn Bell – Mixed Media
Tim Christensen – Ceramics
Mark Del Guidice – Furniture
Andrea Handy – Fiber Wearable

Selma Karaca – Fiber Wearable
Deb Kracht – Mixed Media
